Mines and Money London 2008

2 – 3 December 2008

DAY ONE Tuesday, 2 December

9.00 - 9.15 Welcome

9.15-10.45 State of Global Mining

9.20 How to manage sovereign risk and negotiate effectively with communities in challenging areas

- Bridging the gap between the revenue governments were seeing mining companies make a year ago and the reality now
- How can fair fiscal regimes and a more transparent regulatory environment be established, enforced and implemented?
- Benefit sharing and social management – quantifying the real cost of ignoring these areas and how to get it right
- Africa and Congo focus – are the new mining laws going to encourage stability and transparency there in the future?
- Latest World Bank initiatives in the mining sector

Paulo de Sa, Manager – Oil, Gas and Mining Policy Division, World Bank

9.40 Global exploration strategies in changing market conditions

- Cost inflation in the industry
- Resource nationalism and sovereign risk
- Partnerships with juniors
- Sustainable resource development – implications for exploration and mining

Eric Finlayson – Head of Exploration, Rio Tinto

10.00 The changing shape of the market

- The changing industry landscape
- Industry consolidation
- Fundraising in the current market environment
- AIM as a source of funding
- Arising acquisition opportunities

Thys Terblanche – Head of Mining and Metals, Investment Banking, Standard Bank

10.20 Social and community development

- Increased power for communities has emerged from the growth of democracy; increasing responsiveness from the industry; the growing influence of NGOs; and the industry's increasing understanding that the need for free prior and informed consultation is a reality
- The need to understand both direct and indirect; the positive and the negative impacts of our industry
- Sustainable development related issues have become a key constraint on the industry's ability to expand production
- What are the legitimate expectations of the industry's contribution to development at a national and country level? Multi-stakeholder partnerships are emerging as of growing importance in improving governance and in tackling infrastructure and water constraints. What strategies can companies adopt at a local level to ensure that they understand the development needs of the communities associated with their operations?

Edward Bickham, Anglo American

10.40 Questions and answers

10.45-11.50 Ten-Minute Corporate Presentations – Latest Developments in Diamonds Projects

Chaired by: Daniel Fox-Davies, Fox-Davies Capital

Panel: Gemfields (Gems; Zambia); Etruscan Resources (Au, Diamonds; W&S Africa); Liberty International (Au, Diamonds; Liberia, Canada); Kopane Diamonds (Diamonds; S Africa); Rockwell Diamonds (Diamonds; S&C Africa); Firestone Diamonds (Diamonds; South Africa, Botswana)

12.00 - 13.30 Mining Financing

Chair: David Glennie – Blake Cassels & Graydon

12.05 New industry structure: where is the industry currently heading; are there any common themes which will re-shape the mining sector?

- M&A is still very active
- Juniors continue to be swallowed by the majors
- Geographical rebalancing of the industry – growth of the Chinese and Indian investments in new territories
- Government to government agreements – eg Chinese and African governments
- Who controls mineral resources – how is this balance gradually shifting
- How is the financing market supporting this shift – eg advisory to Chinese companies in Africa
- Is it a level playing field for financing – Chinese state owned banks activity
- Potential for Western mining companies – eg strategic partnerships with new partners

Judith Mosely – Managing Director, Mining Finance, Société Générale

12.25 Locking in good prices and finances

Michael Lynch-Bell – Partner in Charge, Mining, Ernst & Young

12.45 Examining the operating and funding challenges facing small miners and how they can be overcome in the short and long term

- Costs rising faster than some commodity prices

- Availability and costs of skilled labour
- Sources of risk capital dry up
- Risk premia rise in a risk-averse market
- Consolidation threats increase
- Identifying the M&A opportunities emerging in the market and how they will be priced
- Who will be the winners and losers?

Des Kilalea – Analyst, RBC Capital Markets

13.05 Clearly valuing and communicating risks vs rewards to investors in challenging areas

- Risk vs reward profiles of the different areas
- How to value sovereign risk, health and safety, contract risk
- What should you do if these risk levels change or are expected to change?

Peter Rose – Head of Mining Research, Fox-Davies Capital

13.25 Questions and answers

13.30 - 14.35 Ten-Minute Corporate Presentations – Recent Developments in Europe and CIS

Chaired by: Frank Holmes, CEO and Chief Investment Officer, US Global Investors

Panel: EMED Mining (Au, Cu; Georgia, Cyprus, Spain, Slovakia); Stratex (Au, Cu, Mo; Turkey); European Goldfields (Au, Ag; Romania); Northland Resources (Au, Cu, Iron ore; Sweden, Finland); Kefi Minerals (Au, Ag; Turkey); Amur (Ni, Cu; Russia)

14.45 - 17.15 Investment Fundamentals

Chair: Rod Whyte

14.50 Understanding the concept 'emergence' to adapt to changing market conditions

- How do investors view the sector - key trends, opportunities and risks
- Expectations are rapidly diminishing in a difficult market – clarifying exactly what investors now need to see from the mining industry
- High risk, non-performance, poor planning and execution is creating real investment issues in the market – what is currently worthy of investment?
- Evaluating the emerging country risks and opportunities? Demographics and correlation of metal demand with industrial output in G7 vs E7 (China, India, Brazil, Pakistan, Mexico, Russia and Nigeria).
- Demand destruction – how to overcome?
- How can juniors and governments be more realistic in what they want?
 - Factoring in the rising capital costs which means higher commodity prices.
 - Coming up with appropriate and realistic discount rates.

Frank Holmes – CEO and Chief Investment Officer, US Global Investors

15.10 Clarifying what investors are looking for in the new market conditions

Graham Birch – Head of Natural Resources Investment, BlackRock, London

15.30 Update on the volatile market for mining equities and the investment opportunities that are coming - doom and gloom or new boom?

- Boom, credit crunch . . . what next, new boom or downhill from here?
- Is there really a commodity bubble to burst?
- Understanding the opportunities that are arising through the disconnect in the current market – value/fundamentals of mining vs lack of liquidity, market fear, low risk appetite in banks
- Pinpointing when and where it's a good time to invest in mining

George Rogers – Commodities and Resource Finance, Capital Markets, Investec

15.50 Top tips for investing in mining and balancing risk in your portfolio

- Go long? Go short? What is the best method of investing in mining today?
- How do you balance risk in your portfolio?
- How important to the investor is geographic focus versus a diversified asset portfolio?
- Implications of increased cost of capital in this sector for investors?
- Where will investors put their money in 2009?
- Growth areas in the medium and long term - will investors favour mid-cap and junior miners?
- Assessing the long term potential of different commodities

John Lee – Principal, Mau Capital Management

16.10 Questions and answers

16.15 - 17.30 Ten-Minute Corporate Presentations – Precious Metals Opportunities

Chaired by: Frank Lucas, Loeb Aron

Panel: Papua New Guinea Government (Base, Precious Metals; PNG); Randgold Resources (Au; Mali, Burkina Faso, Tanzania); Central Sun Mining (Au; Nicaragua); Metallum (Au, PGMs, Zn, Pb; Ireland); Lydian International (Au, Zn, Pb; Eastern Europe); Apex Minerals (Au, Ni; Australia); Excalibur Mining (Au; Australia)

17.30 - 19.30 DRINKS RECEPTION AND OPPORTUNITY TO NETWORK WITH SPEAKERS AND DELEGATES

Mines and Money London 2008

2 – 3 December 2008

DAY TWO Wednesday, 3 December

9.30 - 10.30 Kosovo breakfast seminar: An update on mining licensing

9.00 - 10.45 China Focus: Resource requirements, sovereign spending, and doing business in the Chinese markets

Chair: Ian Coles – Partner, Mayer Brown

9.15 Listing on the HKEx – an international market in Asia for mining companies

- Why should we pick HKEx?
- Practicalities of listing

Lawrence Fok – Executive Vice President, Hong Kong Exchanges and Clearing Limited

9.35 China's outward investment overview: resource requirements, new geo-partnering strategies and investment priorities

- China's growing leadership internationally and how their economic interests are developing
- How is the surplus of currency being spent and how will new infrastructure projects in China and elsewhere impact on the mining market
- New focus on growth rather than inflation – what does this mean to the rest of the world?
- Which raw materials are the top priorities for the government to keep or acquire?
- Assessing the shape of banks in China and how they will invest their money
- Tax issues – what is the policy on taxes on exporting materials they need
- What are the key countries China will be investing in aggressively
- Chinese fund managers/investors/big end users/government – what are they looking for?
- What are the Chinese investing in, particularly outside of China?

9.55 Listing of mineral companies on the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong (SEHK)

- The SEHK is characterised by great liquidity. Part of this liquidity is as a result of the qualified domestic institutional investor scheme, introduced in 2006, to channel China's foreign reserves into the SEHK and to alleviate the liquidity glut in the economy.
- While the SEHK is dominated by Hong Kong and mainland Chinese companies, to alleviate this dependence, the SEHK implemented a policy a year ago to attract foreign companies to list on it.
- Foreign companies are increasingly looking to list on the SEHK. The premiums for resource companies on the SEHK remain strong and in some cases much higher than other international markets. Given China's huge demand for minerals and resources, the lack of mineral and resources companies on the SEHK and the premiums involved, foreign mineral and resources companies are especially looking to list on the SEHK

David Richardson – Counsel, Dorsey & Whitney, HK

10.15 China mining – a paradigm shift from investee to investor

- The big picture in the country as corporate growth explodes
- The change from a high dependence on inbound capital and investment to one that now exports capital to key mining jurisdictions
- Strategies to capitalise on this shift

Keith Spence – President, Global Mining Corp

10.35 Questions and answers

10.45 - 12.00 Ten-Minute Corporate Presentations – Energy and Other Commodities

Chaired by: Jeremy Wrathall, GMP

12.10 - 13.25 Ten-Minute Corporate Presentations – North America

Chaired by: Evy Hambro, BlackRock

Panel: North American Tungsten (Tungsten; Canada); Copper Fox (Cu; Canada); Donner Metals (Zu, Cu, Ni; Canada); Yellowhead (Au, Ag, Cu; Canada); Esperanza Silver (Ag; Peru, Mexico); Nevoro Inc; (Au, Base Metals; US); Petaquilla (Au, Cu; Panama)

13.35 - 15.10 International Big Picture – Risks and Opportunities

Chair: Corene Crossin – Senior Consultant, Consulting Projects, Global Risk Analysis, Control Risks

13.40 Clarifying geo-political challenges and resource nationalisation trends in riskier, but high potential areas – latest developments, trends and likely next moves

- Focus on political risk in general and resource nationalism in particular in Africa – Democratic Republic of Congo – is there any potential to finance despite the instability in country? What kind of guarantees to look for from the government and projects?
 - Angola (land mines), Laos, Mozambique, Zambia (changing tax regimes), New Guinea
 - Contrasting contract review processes in DRC with what is happening in

Tanzania

- Focus on Eastern Europe and Russia, with a particular look at Kazakhstan
 - Focus on Asia (non-China): India, Philippines, Indonesia, Mongolia, Pakistan
 - Focus on South America
 - Brazil
 - Resource nationalism
 - Focus on windfall taxes in more stable areas
 - Are the shifts in government attitudes towards foreign investment in mining likely to change in the recent economic climate? Will we see a loosening of demands on foreign operators?
 - How best to assess the specific risk profile of a project given national and local dynamics - steps you need to take to be prepared
- Corene Crossin – Senior Consultant – Consulting Projects, Global Risk Analysis Division, Control Risks

14.00 Middle East Focus: Pinpointing demand and accessing funding

- What do the big customers there need for their energy intensive project and how fast will the demand grow?
- What initiatives are the governments making to ensure security of supply?
- What kind of investment opportunities will ME investors embrace and what kind of case needs to be made to gain funding?
- Where do Middle Eastern funds run out of – London, Switzerland, Dubai?
- Quantifying the requirements for materials that are being fuelled by the boom in residential and commercial property developments
- Copper expectations

14.20 Copper – the big picture: supply developments internationally and the impact of growth in Asia & the Middle East on demand, risk and reward in the sector

- How did copper prices get where they are; what caused it?
- The reality of decoupling
- Understanding the impact of the growth in Asia and the different technology needs required and the materials needed to support them
- Exploring the impact of extensive building in emerging areas and the impact on copper
- Copper demand in power plants and green energy and automobiles – how fast will demand grow in a cool market?
- The future of copper mining - risk and reward

Gianni Kovacevic – Corporate Development Strategist, Petaquilla Minerals

14.40 Major mining company perspective: effectively incorporating and integrating social engagement/corporate social responsibility into your core strategies

- How to drive and integrate social engagement into the heart of your risk management strategy
 - Moving it from the sidelines to core
 - Packaging it up for banks and local communities – how to put a cost and value figure on this area
 - Benefits from a political point of view
 - How to integrate technical surveys, security risk, environmental issues with social responsibility
- Revenue sharing, how to leverage private sector earnings to local areas
- Linkages between social investment and success
- What internal processes are needed to accurately assess environmental and social risk

18.30 OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENTS AWARDS DINNER

Mines and Money London 2008

2 – 3 December 2008

Outstanding Achievements Awards Dinner

HAC Winter Garden, City Road, London, EC1Y 2BQ

3 December 2008

The awards dinner has gained real status as one of the most prestigious and prominent events in the mining and finance calendar. Over 1,000 top executives in the world of mining and finance will attend and is most definitely not to be missed.

Twelve awards are given to companies, teams, individuals and projects which have been voted as demonstrating real commitment, drive and loyalty to the industry.

The awards will be presented by celebrity guest Barry Cryer OBE (left), who will be a quick-witted and immensely entertaining host. Barry Cryer has written for many top comedians, including Morecambe and Wise, Rory Bremner, Jasper Carrott and Tommy Cooper, and has performed on a variety of entertainment and radio shows.

The HAC Winter Garden

The event will attract:

- influential, senior executives from global mining and finance companies
- lending banks and insurance companies
- fund managers, stockbrokers, currency and commodity traders
- government officials and ministers representing countries around the world
- private investors
- consultancies
- lawyers
- analysts
- strategists

Corporate presentations

Over 40 quick-fire, ten-minute corporate presentations will highlight the investment potential of some of the most exciting mining companies in the world; each investor case presented has a unique story and we endeavour to offer our attendees a varied selection of investment opportunities. They are designed specifically to whet the appetite of busy professional investors. The speakers will all be available for meetings afterwards at their exhibition booths.
